Austin, TX (myFOXaustin.com) - The bone discovered Wednesday in fill dirt on the north side of Evergreen Cemetery has been identified as a human bone.

On Wednesday Austin police sealed off the area, and took the bone to the Medical Examiners office for analysis. Officials believe the bone may be from a long forgotten grave that was inadvertently dug up for a new grave.

Evergreen Cemetery is managed by a private company hired by the Austin Parks Department. Park officials say they won't comment until they hear more from the police department which may not happen until next week.
